Sponsor a Fly Fishing Film Tour Screening for Healthy Rivers

Join Washington Water Trust (WWT) and Red's Fly Fishing as we host a benefit screening of the 18th annual Fly Fishing Film Tour at Canyon River Ranch on Friday, Nov. 8. Proceeds support the restoration and protection of Washington's rivers and streams, including the Teanaway River, Yakima River, and Big Creek. Sponsor this benefit screening and make a difference for rivers and streams with WWT!

Washington Water Trust is the statewide nonprofit leader restoring streamflows to salmon streams across Washington. We are excited to host our second annual screening of the Fly Fishing Film Tour and celebrate the connection between fishing and healthy rivers on Nov. 8!

WWT keeps rivers flowing year-round using collaborative market-based solutions, including water rights transactions, water banking, and sustainable alternative water sources.

We work with farmers, the Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation, the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, and other local partners to restore streamflows in the Teanaway River, Yakima River, and Taneum Creek.

Your business can sponsor this Fly Fishing Film Tour screening to align with a trusted nonprofit, connect with passionate outdoor recreators, and make a difference for local rivers and streams! Proceeds help keep more than 5.7 billion gallons of restored water flowing every year.
